The County has been advised by the District that the issuance of the Bonds, through the Project financed thereby, is intended to address demand for fire service generated by development in the District, to enhance the maintenance capability of the District, and to replace depreciated apparatus and equipment necessary to maintain service capability.

3. The District estimates that the costs of the Project and the costs of issuance of the Bonds will not exceed $5,500,000.

4. Therefore, the County Council has ordered a public hearing to be held upon the question of the issuance of the Bonds in accordance with the provisions of Title 6, Chapter 11, Article 5 of the Code of Laws of South Carolina 1976, as amended (the "Enabling Act").

5. For the payment of principal and interest on the Bonds as they respectively mature and for the creation of such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor, the full faith, credit and taxing power of the District shall be irrevocably pledged, and there shall be levied on all taxable property in the District ad valorem taxes sufficient in amount to pay said principal and interest on the Bonds.

6. The aforesaid hearing shall be conducted publicly and both proponents and opponents of the proposed action shall be given full opportunity to be heard in person or by counsel. Public comments, written and oral, are invited. Those wishing to provide written public comments for the public hearing should email comments to public-comments@charlestoncounty.org by 12:00 p.m. on September 20, 2022. PROPOSED TEXT AMENDMENTS TO THE CHARLESTON COUNTY HISTORIC PRESERVATION ORDINANCE

Historic Preservation Commission Meeting: August 16, 2022

Planning/Public Works Committee: September 15, 2022

Public Hearing: September 20, 2022

First Reading: September 20, 2022

Second Reading: October 11, 2022

Third Reading: October 25, 2022

Background

The Charleston County Historic Preservation Ordinance (Ord. No. 2028) was adopted on August 21, 2018. The ordinance, which is located in the County's Code of Ordinances and is not part of the Zoning and Land Development Regulations Ordinance, accomplishes the following:

- Sets up a Historic Preservation Commission;
- Establishes a Designation of Historic Property process for County Council to create a list of locally significant historic properties and districts; and
- Creates a process by which proposed changes to County-designated and NRHP-listed historic properties and districts can be reviewed and determined by the Commission (called Certificates of Historic Appropriateness).
- April 13, 2021: The Historic Preservation Ordinance was amended (Ord. No. 2150) to remove the application requirement for owners of property within proposed historic districts to sign restrictive covenant affidavits.
- October 26, 2021: The Historic Preservation Ordinance was amended (Ord. No. 2176) to exempt limited site plan review applications and specific types of subdivision plat applications from the Certificate of Historic Appropriateness requirements, and make clerical changes and clarifications as needed.

The Historic Preservation Commission was formed in late 2018/early 2019 and met for the first time on February 19, 2019. Since that time, they have heard many applications for Certificates of Historic Appropriateness (CHA) that have been required due to proximity to, or located within, historically designated properties/districts. Some cases have identified specific zoning permit applications of the Zoning and Land Development Regulations (ZLDR) Ordinance that could be exempt from Historic Preservation Commission review. The growing amount of CHA applications have also generated the potential need for a process for administrative review to minor modifications to approved CHAs, as described below.

Proposed exemptions from the CHA process include the following specific types of Zoning Permit applications:

1. Existing Communications Towers where no changes to the lease area or equipment area are proposed;
2. Face changes for existing, legally permitted Signs;
3. Home Occupations;
4. Permits for Tree Removal that meet the requirements of the Charleston County Zoning and Land Development Regulations Ordinance;
5. Power Poles where no alteration, modification, addition to, new construction, rehabilitation, relocation, or restoration is proposed;
6. Temporary Special Events; and
7. Temporary Uses and Structures.

Proposed modifications to approved Certificates of Historic Appropriateness include the following:

The Zoning and Planning Director shall determine whether a proposed modification to a previously approved Certificate of Historic Appropriateness is considered a minor or major modification, pursuant to the criteria in this section. Modifications of approved Certificates of Historic Appropriateness are categorized as major or minor depending on the type and extent of proposed changes, as described below:

1. Minor Modifications.

- a. Increase in Common Open Space area;
- b. Decrease in residential Density or number of Dwelling Units;
- c. Increase in Setbacks;
- d. Increase in the area, dimensions, and/or Density of Landscape Buffers;
- e. Decrease in Building Floor Area;
- f. Decrease in the number or size of Signs;
- g. Minor shifts in the layout of the land uses in an approved Site Plan;
- h. Minor shifts in the location of access points or internal Roadways necessary to resolve regulatory (e.g., SCDOT) permitting issues; and
- i. The Zoning and Planning Director is authorized to approve minor modifications to an approved Certificate of Historic Appropriateness.

2. Major Modifications.

- a. Any modification not considered “minor” pursuant to paragraph 1, above, is considered a major modification;
- b. Major modifications require a new Certificate of Historic Appropriateness, in accordance with the procedure specified in this Article; and
- c. Any Certificate of Historic Appropriateness application must comply with all requirements of this Article.

Additional proposed amendments include separating Subdivision and Site Plan Review application requirements for Historic Properties/properties within Historic Districts and those within 300 feet of a Historic Property/District, as well as requiring applicants to obtain Certificate of Historic Appropriateness approval from the Historic Preservation Commission prior to placement on a Board of Zoning Appeals agenda, if applicable.

Staff Recommendation:

Amend the Historic Preservation Ordinance to exempt specific zoning permit applications from CHA requirements, create an administrative review process for minor amendments to approved CHAs, formalize the process for CHA applications that also require BZA approval, and clarify the Subdivision and Site Plan Review application requirements, as needed (proposed amendments are attached-see the bold, red, italic text showing modifications to the ordinance language).

It is the responsibility of the Parties in Interest to provide updated contact information to the Historic Preservation Officer. The Historic Preservation Officer will keep the Parties in Interest contact information on file for one year from the initial date received. Failure to provide this notice will not invalidate any action taken.

Sec. 21-7 – Terms and Uses Defined

A

Archaeological Site. A place (or group of physical sites) in which evidence of past activity is preserved (prehistoric, historic, or contemporary), and which has been, or may be, investigated using the discipline of archaeology and represents a part of the archaeological record. A site may range from one with few or no remains visible above ground, to a building or other structure still in use.

C

Certificate of Historic Appropriateness. The document issued by the Historic Preservation Commission (HPC) certifying that proposed actions are found to be acceptable relating to any alteration of, or change to a locally designated or National Register of Historic Places (NRHP) listed Historic Property or District, or for subdivision or site plan review applications for properties located within 300 feet of a locally designated or NRHP listed Historic Property or District.

F

Freeholder. Any person 18 years of age, or older, and any firm or corporation, who or which owns legal title to a present possessory interest in real estate equal to a life estate or greater (expressly excluding leaseholds, easements, equitable interests, inchoate rights, dower rights, and future interests) and who owns, at the date of the application, at least an undivided one-tenth interest in a single tract and whose name appears on the county records as an owner of real estate.

H

Historic Building. A "building", such as a house, barn, church, hotel, or similar construction, that is created principally to shelter any form of human activity. "Building" may also be used to refer to a historically and functionally related unit, such as a courthouse and jail or a house and barn. Buildings must include all of their basic structural elements; parts of buildings, such as interiors, facades, or wings, are not eligible independent of the rest of the existing building. Examples may include, but are not limited to: administration building; carriage house; church; city or town hall; courthouse; detached kitchen, barn, and privy; dormitory; fort; garage; hotel; house; library; mill building; office building; post office; school; shed; social hall; stable; store; theater; or train station.

Historic District. A Historic Preservation District possesses a significant concentration, linkage, or continuity of sites, buildings, structures, or objects united historically or aesthetically by plan or physical development. It means a geographically definable area, urban or rural, which contains sites, buildings, structures, objects, works of art, or a combination thereof which:

- Have a special character or special historical or ethnic heritage or aesthetic interest or value;
- Represent one or more periods or styles of architecture typical of one or more eras in the history of Charleston County or the state or region; and
- Cause such area, by reason of these factors, to constitute a visibly perceptible section of Charleston County, which may either be locally-designated or NRHP-listed.

A Historic District derives its importance from being a unified entity, even though it is often composed of a wide variety of resources. The identity of a district results from the interrelationship of its resources, which can convey a visual sense of the overall historic environment or be an arrangement of historically or functionally related properties. For example, a district can reflect one principal activity, such as a mill or a ranch, or it can encompass several interrelated activities, such as an area that includes industrial, residential, or commercial buildings, sites, structures, or objects. A Historic Preservation Overlay District can also be a grouping of archeological sites related primarily by their common components; these types of districts often will not visually represent a specific historic environment.

A Historic District can comprise both features that lack individual distinction and individually distinctive features that serve as focal points. It may even be considered eligible if all of the components lack individual distinction, provided that the grouping achieves significance as a whole within its historic context. In either case, the majority of the components that add to the district's historic character, even if they are individually undistinguished, must possess integrity, as must the district as a whole.

A Historic District can contain buildings, structures, sites, objects, or open spaces that do not contribute to the significance of the Historic Preservation Overlay District. The number of noncontributing properties a Historic Preservation Overlay District can contain yet still convey its sense of time and place and historical development depends on how these properties affect the Historic Preservation Overlay District's integrity. In archeological districts, the primary factor to be considered is the effect of any disturbances on the information potential of the district as a whole.

Historic Object. The term “Historic Object” is used to distinguish from buildings and structures those constructions that are primarily artistic in nature or are relatively small in scale and simply constructed. Although it may be, by nature or design, movable, an object is associated with a specific setting or environment. Small objects not designed for a specific location are normally not included in this definition. Such works include a transportable sculpture, furniture, and other decorative arts that, unlike a fixed outdoor sculpture, do not possess association with a specific place. Objects should be in a setting appropriate to their significant historic use, roles, or character. Objects relocated to a museum are inappropriate for designation. Examples may include, but are not limited to: boundary marker; monument; milepost fountain; sculpture; or statuary.

Historic Property. A Historic Site, Historic Building, Historic Structure, or Historic Object that is fixed in location, which reflects historic, cultural or architectural significance.

Historic Site. The location of a significant event, a prehistoric or historic occupation or activity, or a building or structure, whether standing, ruined, or vanished, where the location itself possesses historic, cultural, or archeological value regardless of the value of any existing structure. A site need not be marked by physical remains if it is the location of a prehistoric or historic event or pattern of events and if no buildings, structures, or objects marked it at the time of the events. However, when the location of a prehistoric or historic event cannot be conclusively determined because no other cultural materials were present or survive, documentation must be carefully evaluated to determine whether the traditionally recognized or identified site is accurate. A site may be a natural landmark strongly associated with significant prehistoric or historic events or patterns of events, if the significance of the natural feature is well-documented through scholarly research. Generally, though, the definition of "site" excludes natural waterways or bodies of water that served as determinants in the location of communities or were significant in the locality's subsequent economic development. While they may have been "avenues of exploration," the features most appropriate to document this significance are the properties built in association with the waterways. Examples may include, but are not limited to: battlefield; campsite; cemeteries significant for information potential or historic association; ceremonial site; designed landscape; habitation site; natural feature (such as a rock formation) having cultural significance; petroglyph; rock carving; rock shelter; ruins of a building or structure; shipwreck; trail; or a village site.

Historic Structure. The term “Historic Structure” is used to distinguish from buildings those functional constructions made usually for purposes other than creating human shelter. Structures must include all of the extant basic structural elements; parts of structures cannot be considered eligible if the whole structure remains. For example, a truss bridge is composed of the metal or wooden truss, the abutments, and supporting piers, all of which, if extant, must be included when considering the property for eligibility. If a structure has lost its historic configuration or pattern of organization through deterioration or demolition, it is considered a "ruin" and is categorized as a site.

Rehabilitation (Historic Property or District). The process of returning a building or buildings to a state of utility, through repair or alteration, which makes possible an efficient contemporary use while preserving those portions and features of the building(s) that are significant to its historic, architectural and cultural values.

Repair (Historic Property or District). The mending or restoration of a building or structure to a sound or good state, at or nearest to its original designed condition, due to decay, dilapidation, damage or partial destruction. Such work shall not change the size or shape in whole or in part of a building or structure to expand a use. It shall include the terms "renovation", "rebuilding" and "reconstruction" for purposes of this Ordinance.

Restoration (Historic Property or District). The act or process of accurately depicting the form, features, and character of a designated property as it appeared at a particular period of time by means of the removal of features from other periods in its history and reconstruction of missing features from the restoration period. The limited and sensitive upgrading of mechanical, electrical and plumbing systems and other code-required work to make properties functional is appropriate within a restoration period.
