

Charleston County Emergency Operations Center News Release

Date: September 5, 2008

Time: 10:00 AM

Release Number: 2919

Charleston County Remains at OPCON 1, Stronger Effects Expected from Tropical Storm Hanna

Based on the information learned during the 8:30 a.m. conference call with state officials and officials from other counties and the National Weather Service, Charleston County remains at Operating Condition (OPCON) 1 today. The OPCON 1 level means a disaster or emergency situation is in effect, full-fledged emergency response operations are on-going, and Charleston County is in the highest state of emergency operations.

Charleston County is currently under a Tropical Storm Warning and a Hurricane Watch. Hanna has tracked farther west than yesterday's forecast predicted, and it could come even closer to Charleston County's coast before making a turn to the north. Tropical storm force winds of 40-45 mph are expected to reach the county's coast around 2 p.m. today. The heaviest winds will be this afternoon and through the evening, and wind gusts could be as high as 60 to 70 mph. If the center of the storm moves south, those estimations could increase. The likelihood of tornadoes could increase if the storm moves farther west. The storm surge is expected to be two to three feet above normal tide levels by later today through midnight, causing some minor coastal flooding and beach erosion.

Charleston County issued a voluntary evacuation effective at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 4. The voluntary evacuation was issued for people living east of Highway 17 in vulnerable or low-lying areas, and anyone who lives in a mobile home anywhere in Charleston County.

Charleston County shelters housed a total of nine residents overnight Thursday. Seven people stayed at Stall High School and two people stayed at the special medical needs shelter (Alice Birney Middle School).

In order to accommodate those who wish to leave but do not have a safe location outside of the Charleston County area, a limited number of shelters are open.

REQUIREMENTS: Pets are only allowed in the designated animal emergency shelter at the North Charleston Coliseum. Only one person per pet is allowed to stay, and one person must stay with a pet because animals cannot be dropped off. You must bring all supplies needed for your pet: crate, collar, leash, food, identification, veterinarian/immunization records, etc.

Residents needing transportation to a shelter may call the Citizens Information Line at (843) 202-7100 or the Spanish Information Hotline, (843) 202-7191.

A voluntary evacuation is targeted toward people who are most vulnerable to the threat, including people living on barrier islands and in manufactured homes.

The public needs to monitor their local news media and be prepared as Tropical Storm Hanna moves toward the state's coastline.

Officials from Charleston County will stay in close communication with state agencies and other counties and organizations.

Closure Information

Schools

Charleston County School District announced that schools will be closed on Friday, Sept. 5, and all school activities will be cancelled on Friday as well.

The College of Charleston has cancelled all classes and events for Friday, Sept. 5 and Saturday, Sept. 6. The College of Charleston administrative offices are also closed. Classes are scheduled to resume on Monday, Sept. 8, unless otherwise announced.

Charleston County Government

All non-essential Charleston County Government offices will be closed on Friday, Sept. 5.

Charleston County Solid Waste & Recycling

The solid waste administrative office will be closed on Friday, Sept. 5, and will reopen for normal hours on Monday, Sept. 8. The Bees Ferry Landfill will close at 1 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 5, and it is anticipated that the landfill will have normal operating hours on Saturday.

There will be curbside recycling collection on Friday, Sept. 5 until 12 p.m. Therefore, if your recycling bin has not been emptied by 12 p.m. today, you need to remove it from the curb. There will be no makeup recycling service for those not collected, so people are encouraged to take their recyclables to one of the many dropsites located throughout the County, once the weather permits.

The Incinerator (Waste-to-Energy Facility) will be open to receive garbage during normal hours on Friday, Sept. 5 and Saturday, Sept. 6. The Charleston County rural convenience centers will be open on Friday, Sept. 5 and Saturday, Sept. 6 during normal operating hours.

Libraries

Charleston County Public Library's 16 locations and all library book drops will close Friday, September 5, 2008, in anticipation of winds and rain associated with Hurricane Hanna. All branches will close at their normal times today, Thursday, September 4, 2008. At this point, plans call for branches to resume their regular schedules and reopen on Saturday, September 6, 2008. If there are any changes to Saturday's schedule because of the impact of Hanna, that information will be released to the local news media and posted on the Library's Web site – www.ccpl.org. With branches reaching both the northern and southern points of Charleston County - from Edisto to McClellanville - the Library System will close to ensure safety to patrons and workers.
