County Council Approves $1.9M in Rural Greenbelt Applications

Greenbelt funds from the Transportation Half-Cent Sales Tax approved for nine projects to protect 821 acres

At a regular meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 7, Charleston County Council approved $1,930,500 for nine greenbelt projects that were submitted for funding under the County's Rural Grant Program.

The projects will be funded by the greenbelt portion of the Transportation Half-Cent Sales Tax revenues.

All nine projects were approved by the Greenbelt Bank Board before they were brought to Charleston County Council for final approval. Applications for this round of funding consideration were received by July 31, 2008.

Now that Charleston County Council has approved funding, grant agreements will be executed between the County and the greenbelt grant recipients. Once all necessary documents (appraisals, plats, environmental assessments, title insurance, conservation easements, etc.) are submitted and approved, closings will be conducted and greenbelt funds disbursed.

The funding for the nine projects was awarded to the following entities:

- Edisto Island Open Land Trust: $640,000 for 144 acres
 - Two projects on Edisto Island to place conservation easements on adjacent properties located along Milton Creek. Both include working farms with open fields and pastures as well as ruins of the historic Thomas Bannister Seabrook Plantation.

- Lowcountry Open Land Trust: $1,197,500 for 674 acres
 - Five projects to place conservation easements on properties located on Edisto Island, Johns Island, Wadmalaw Island and the Charleston/Dorchester County line. These projects will preserve lands used for farming, protect Lowcountry natural resources and preserve scenic landscapes and views.

- Town of McClellanville: $93,000 for 3.27 acres
 - Two properties to be purchased by the Town of McClellanville for use as greenspace and to provide a link to connect two existing walking/biking trail systems.

So far, the Charleston County Transportation Half-Cent Sales Tax has provided $32 million toward the preservation of greenspace in Charleston County, with $11 million dedicated for urban areas and $21 million for rural areas.
