County’s Consolidated 9-1-1 Center to Partner with Joint Base Charleston

New partnership will enhance public safety for Joint Base Charleston

The Charleston County Consolidated 9-1-1 Center is now partnering with Joint Base Charleston (JB CHS) to provide a more efficient 9-1-1 service. Charleston County 9-1-1 will answer and process all 9-1-1 calls and texts to 9-1-1 for JB CHS. Charleston County 9-1-1 will then send the information electronically to JB CHS and they will dispatch the information to their Security Forces and Fire Service.

The new partnership will decrease emergency response time and increase information sharing with other public safety agencies.

“The goal of this relationship with Joint Base Charleston is to ensure prompt, efficient response and assistance to those requesting emergency service,” said Jim Lake, Charleston County Consolidated 9-1-1 Center Director.

Partnership Highlights:

- Charleston County provides certified Dispatchers for emergency call handling
  - Life saving techniques provided via phone or text
- JB CHS provides trained Dispatchers to dispatch the calls to their responders
  - Provides specific Base and military operations knowledge
- Coordinated Response
  - Improves the ability to work with surrounding police, fire, and EMS
  - County and JB CHS share live feed response maps showing current emergency responses
  - Response units utilize GPS mapping directions instead of Security Force (SFS) escorts
- Cost Savings/Additional Efficiencies:
  - Reduces cost by eliminating the $500,000 Air Force 9-1-1 system refresh every five years
  - Reduces workload on JB CHS dispatchers, letting them focus on response coordination

The new streamlined dispatch process with Charleston County 9-1-1 will replace an older system which required multiple agencies. Previously, some emergency calls were routed to the JB CHS Fire Department or Berkeley County only to be routed back to the base. Additionally, cell phones from JB CHS were answered by Charleston County but, landlines were answered by JB CHS Fire. Now, all 9-1-1 calls or texts will be handled by Charleston County 9-1-1 for emergency response.

“This is a great example of a partnership achieving mutual value and benefits, creating a win-win for our Joint Base service members and families, and for the surrounding communities,” said Colonel Rob Lyman, Commander, Joint Base Charleston.

For information on Charleston County Government news and services, the public can:

- Visit our website: www.charlestoncounty.org

- Prepared by the Public Information Office -
WHEREAS, the enhanced, joint capabilities were implemented in agreement 9-1-1, a collaborative effort between Joint Base Charleston and Charleston County, whereby a Memorandum of Agreement (MOA) was signed on November 15, 2013, and

WHEREAS, the MOA to provide a more efficient 9-1-1 service, whereby the Charleston County 9-1-1 Center accepts and processes all 9-1-1 calls and routes to the Joint Base Charleston 9-1-1 Center, which, in turn, communicates with the Charleston County Emergency Services personnel and Joint Base Charleston personnel.

NOW, THEREFORE, WE, the representatives for Joint Base Charleston, Charleston County, and the Charleston County Consolidated Dispatch Board, do hereby proclaim that the Memorandum of Agreement is in effect.

In Testimony Whereof, we sign our names in recognition and celebration of this milestone on this day, March 19, 2017.

Robert K. Carter, US Army
Air Force Wing Commander
Joint Base Charleston

Robert A. Moore, US Army
Commodore 62 B11

Matthew F. Raines, US Army
Commander TACOM

Charleston County

Robert D. Olive, US Army
Chief of Staff

Taylor E. Byrns, Jr., US Army
Charleston County

Byers W. May Jr., US Army
Charleston County